RICHMOND GETS HONORABLE MENTION OVER NEW STATUTE

Health Office Receives Requests For Drafts of Ordinance

Health officer Brake's new pasteurized milk ordinance recently adopted by the city council, which becomes effective on the first of next month, has won for Richmond considerable distinction throughout the state.

Dr. Blake announces that he has received numerous requests from cities and towns all over California for copies of the new regulations, the ybeing desirous of framing similar ordances for their own use.

Secretary of the State Dairy Bureau, J. A. Anderson of San Francisco has written to Dr. Blake and asked that acopy of the ordinance be sent him for his own reference, he being of the opinion that the statute embraces several notable virtues not apparent in those of other cities.

The following from the Concord Transcropt, is but one of the articles which have apepared. In this manner Richmond is receiving much valuable publicity:

"Pasteurize milk and prevent typhoid."

This is declared the lesson of a recent outbreak of typhoid fever at Richmond, now proved to have been caused by typhoid bacilli in milk. Milk from the same dairy, drunk in Berkeley by a dozen times as many people, caused not a single case of typhoid because it has been pasteurized, by heating it to 145 degrees for thirty minutes.

The story of this triumphant proof that raw milk ought to be pasteurized before it is sold, save when through medical examination of the dairy employes can be required at frequent intervals, is told in a paper just published by Dr. J. C. Geiger, Assistant Director, and Dr. F. S. Kelly, Bacteriologist of the Bureau of Communicable Diseases maintained at the University of California, State Board of Health

STEGE SECTION BADLY FLOODED

The tracks of the San Francisco Oakland terminal railways and the roads about the county line district and Stege are inundated as the result of the recent heavy rainfall.

Several business houses have been flooded and traffic in that section is almost impossible.

The trouble is said to be largely due to the insufficient size of the culverts, which are unable to carry the great volumne of water which is collecting along the gutters of the streets.

It is believed that much repair work will be necessary to put the roads in good condition again.

The house was recently closed by the red light abatement act and a rigid investigation will be held looking into the cause of the fire to determine whether or not it was of incendiary origin.

PUT THE UNEMPLOYED ON GOVERNMENT LAND

In his annual report, Secretary of Labor Wilson says that public employment service of a national character must go beyond merely hunting "manless jobs" for "jobless men." He declares that this latter policy will not affect the causes of involuntary unemployment, which will express themselves "to the great prejudice of the wage workers of the United States and consequently to the harm o all industrial interests."

To remedy this evil, the ex-Secretary-Treasures of the United Mine Workers of America presents a constructive plan, the ligislation for which need not be eithert voluminiou or revolutionary, and that "nothing more is required than a judicious utilization of Government lands."

The secretary of aLbor develops his plan as follows:

"Title to some of the old public domain still remains in the Government. By a recent decision of the Supreme Court, Congress is soon to have the power, and to be under an obligation, to deat with land-grant railroads regarding the terms on which large areas of that domain heretofore granted away may be restored. There are extensive areas of privately owned but unused farming land in most or all of the States which might be asquired by the general Government for promoting labor opportunities as advantageously as other areas hav been acquired or retained by it for the creation of public parks. If Congress were to adopt, with reference to these lands, a policy of utilizing them for promoting opportunities for employment, the benefits of the labor-distribution work of this department and of States and municipal public employement offices throughout the United States, would be vastly augmented.

"For such a policy the homestead laws seem to afford a legislative basis and their history to furnish valuable suggestions.

"One necessary condition is that the general Government shall retain title to the public lands it already holds. Another condition is that from time to time it shall reacquire title to such lands formerly owned by it but now privately owned, as are held out of use and may be acquired. Still another condition is that the Government from time to time shall acquire title to such privately owned, as are httltnnMsa- ibfiishrdlucmfwypcmfwypvbgkqiiiii ly owned lands in different States as may be usefully devoted to the purpose of opening opportunities for employment."

"With the above as the basis for his theory, Secretary Wilson provides methods by which inflation of land values may be prevented. He then sugests that the Departments of the Interior, of Agriculture an dof Labor unify their efforts to "make efficient farmers o inexperienced but otherwisef competent workers seeking that vocation"

"Pursuant to shch unification," he continues, "Congress might provide a rotary fund for sending purposes, and to be maintained by repayments of loans. Out of this fund Congress could authorize the departments named above to make loans, through the Department of Labor, to settlers placed by this department upon lands set aside for that purpose in aciordance with the authorized plan for thus augmenting labor opportunities. Those loans could be safeguarded without commercial collateral, by resting them upon the best possible basis of industrial credit—ability, opportunity and character—and by establishing in connection with them a system of community credits adapted to the circumstances.

"It is areasonable prediction that such a policy would develop in country and city an economically independent and socially proiressive population. The results would be analogous in our time to those of the homestead laws at an earlier period."

AT THE RICHMOND

As "Boss" Hoke, an inorshod politician in "The Reform Candidate," showing at the Richmond theater Maclyn Arbuckle, is departing from his usual comedy vein. The departure is welcome, however, for he gives a study of ruggedness, power and yet tenderness withal that bids fair to make a profound impression as his enemy, Frank Grandell, offers the bribe, and then his complete change to brusque, half-embarrassed chivalry in the dramatic mortgage scene with Mrs. Grandell, an old devotion of the politician's are a startling exhibition of fine acting.

A series of current event pictures from the Pathe News will furnish another interesting feature of this evening's show. Then there will be one of the popular Lonesome Luke comedies entitled "A peculiar Patient's Pranks."

AT PANTAGES

Barnold's famous dogs and monkeys, remarkable animal actors, Marice Samuels, "The Walker Whiteside of Vaudeville," and his wonderful sketch, "A day at Ellis Island," and the Ten Toozoonins, acrobats supreme, make up a magnificent triple headliner at the Pantages this week, and crowded houses nightly attest to the success of Manager Pantages' choice in acts.

The three acts are indeed the best in their class, for Manager Pantages picks his acts not from names but from achievements. They make good, or they don't play Pantages time. No one is ever disappointed at the Pantages by going to see a so-called "Famous star" and seeing a poor act.

Maurice Samuels is indeed the foremost Italian character in the United States, as Press and Public attest, and under Manager Pantages direction is offering a wonderful show. "A hot Time in Dogville." the Barnald act, is one of the surprises of its kind. The Toozoonins were specially imported for this circuit.

Hazel Kirk's "Revuette" is one of the biggest hits the Pantages circuit has seen in some time, and the slang act of Princeton and Yale rivals Bert Leslie at his best.

Helen Heen, the soprano, has a pleasing offering, and the new episode of "The Girl and the Game" is more thrilling than any so far. Next week the return of Oklahoma Bob Albright in a new offering.

H. L. Martin, connected with the city engineer's office next Tuesday night will present to the Commercial club a full explanation of the construction, cost and the district to be assessed for the proposed bay shore boulevard which will extend from the south portal of the Municipal tunnel to the Standard Oil ionk wharf.

When typhoid was reported at Richmond, Dr. Geiger and Dr. Kelly discovered that all twelve patients had used milk from a large dairy near Richmond. They found that just before the Richmond outbreak a milker had been sent from this dairy to a Berkeley hospital suffering from typhoid. Undoubtedly he was the source of infection in this milk, for the epidemic at once ceased.

But if Richmond had twelve cases, the scientists asked, why did not Berkeley, where more than six hundred people drank this same milk, show a similar outbreak? On investigation they found that the pasteurization had saved the day. The dairy substation at Richmond has been distributing milk without pasteuriping it, while this same milk when sent to Berkeley for distribution was there carefully pasteurized by heating. Thus while the taste of the milk was not changed any possible danger was prevented that the disease migh be spread in case a milker were sufferinv from typhoid, diptheria, a sore throat, cold, intestinal troubles or any other of a large number od diseases which can be carried in unpasteurized milk. Such germs are destroyed by pasteurization.

Next fall a state law is to go into effect which will require all milk sold in California to be pasteurized unless it comes from a certified dairy. This milkborne epidemic in which cases of typhoid are caused in one town and not a single case in a community close by, which used a dozen times as much of the same milk, is pointed out by the scientists as convincing proof of the great wisdom of the new law relating to pasteurization of milk and the immense value it promises to be to the community in preventing the spread of typhoid, tuberculosis, intestinal troubles, and a host of other preventable ailments fo mankind.
